

COAL STRIKERS GAINING; OPERATORS WANT DEPUTIES.

Mitchell's Claim of Union Victory Verified—
Some of the Mines Flooding.

CALL FOR DEPUTIES NOW UNWARRANTED—FATHER CURRAN.

WILKESBARRE, June 4.—The following statement was dictated to-day by the Rev. Father J. J. Curran, of the Holy Saviour Church, to an Evening World representative:

BY, REV. J. J. CURRAN.

I do not think there is any necessity now for the calling out of deputies. There are numerous coal and iron police on guard and as those who have caused the trouble, so far, are mostly boys, the coal and iron police should be able to prevent the little fellows from doing real damage.

These boys are more mischievous than malicious. They are high-spirited and eager for the success of the strike, and they dislike to see men working in the places of the strikers.

With these men, however, guarded by coal and iron police, and numbers of them about the collieries, there should be no need of deputies.

The calling of Sheriff's deputies means much. It gives the strikers a bad reputation. THEY DO NOT DESERVE IT.

As far as I've seen, none of the strikers has been engaged in the outbreaks.

PRESIDENT MITCHELL HAS TOLD THEM TO REMAIN QUIET AND OBEY THE LAW. THEY ARE DOING SO.

I think Sheriff Jacobs knows this and will not place deputies in the field unless there is real need.

My advice to the strikers is to aid in quelling the disturbances, keep the boys from throwing stones, make the women stop shouting at workers, remain peaceable and do no violence—and in the end they will win.

OPERATORS NOW WANT DEPUTIES.

(Special to The Evening World.)

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 4.—The coal operators, in conference here to-day, decided to appeal to Sheriff Jacobs for aid.

Despite the 4,000 armed coal and iron police in the field the operators say their mines have not sufficient protection.

Developments to-day appeared to be decidedly in favor of the strikers.

The contention of President Mitchell that fully 85 per cent. of the steamers and pump-handlers have joined the ranks of the striking miners is verified by reports from all over the anthracite district.

MANY OF THE MINES, IT IS DECLARED, ARE FLOODING.

More steamers and pump-handlers have quit since yesterday.

The Delaware and Hudson Company is building fortifications about its Conyngham mines.

A number of girls employed at the Wilkesbarre Lake Mills to-day notified the superintendent that unless the girls' fathers have not joined the miners strike were suspended they would go on strike. As the strikers were in the majority the superintendent was compelled to give in.

A crowd of strikers and women held up a car on which a non-union man was being taken from the Prospect colliery. He was pulled off, beaten and thrown into Mill Creek.

All the firemen of the Susquehanna Coal Company at Nanticoke went on strike to-day. Workers were attacked and stoned at Georgetown, Mill Creek, Parsons Plains, Glen Lyon and Miners Mills.

PLENTY OF HARD COAL, PRES. LEDERLE HEARS.

President Lederle, of the Health

Board, was visited by a number of anthracite coal dealers to-day, who notified him that they had plenty of hard coal on hand for those who were ready to buy it at $2.50 per ton for chestnut and $2.75 for pea.

Chief Sanitary Inspector Bradley said that the investigation of the use of soft coal on the "L" had been completed. According to his reports, he declared, the road managers are guilty and suit will at once be begun through the Corporation Counsel.

The inspector said all the violations will be jumped in one action against the Manhattan.

CALL ON ROOSEVELT TO ACT FOR PEACE.

At a meeting of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, held in the board's rooms at No. 283 Broadway, this afternoon, resolutions were adopted calling on President Roosevelt to appoint a commission, first, to arbitrate the questions involved in the coal strike, that failing, to make an investigation of the causes that led to the strike.

President Oscar S. Straus called the meeting to order. About forty members were present.

MORGAN WILL NOT INTERFERE IN STRIKE.

Wall street learned to-day that J. Pierpont Morgan had agreed to keep his hands off in the present struggle between the coal miners and operators in the anthracite district.

The present struggle is to be a decisive test of strength between mine owners and their employees. The operators will hold out against compromise.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Hon. Michael Henry Herbert, it was announced to-day, has been appointed to succeed the late Lord Pauncefoot as British Ambassador at Washington.

Senor De Ojeda also succeeds the Duke de Arcos as Spanish Minister.

Mr. Herbert is the son-in-law of R. T. Wilson, of New York. His wife was Miss Leila Wilson, sister of the young Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and of Mrs. Ogden Goelet. Mrs. Herbert is famed for her beauty.

The Hon. Michael H. Herbert was Secretary to the British Legation at Washington from 1892 to 1896 and earlier was Charge d'Affaires. He was lately in Paris as Secretary to the British Embassy there.

Mr. Herbert is one of many men prominent in the British diplomatic service who have American wives. Lord Pauncefoot's salary as Ambassador was $25,000. It is likely this sum will be considerably increased for the new Ambassador.

GIRL BRIDE LEAPS TO DEATH FROM FERRY-BOAT.

Quarrelled with Husband at Breakfast—Hero
Makes Vain Attempt at Rescue.

MRS. MARY DENNER

Startling from a reproach delivered by her youthful husband at the breakfast table this morning, Mrs. Mary Denner, eighteen years old, of Dutch Kills, L. I., a bride of two months, jumped from a crowded Long Island City ferry-boat in the East River and was drowned.

In the tremendous excitement that ensued an unknown hero kept his head. He jumped overboard after the young woman, but she was swept underneath the boat and did not come to the surface.

Mrs. Denner was the wife of Charles Denner, aged eighteen, a machinist's helper in the Rose Machine Shops, at Third street and West avenue, Long Island City. Almost from the date of their marriage they quarrelled, and this morning they had a particularly bitter argument at breakfast.

The young woman left the house weeping, to go to work in a cigar factory in this borough. She was compelled to tell to help out the meagre income of her husband.

Mrs. Denner boarded the ferry-boat Long Beach, which left the Long Island City slip for Thirty-fourth street at 7:10 o'clock.

This boat was crowded to the guards with workers from upper Long Island hurrying to their places of employment. The rear deck was jammed to the iron gates, and closest of all to the stern was Mrs. Denner.

She was weeping as the boat left the slip, but little attention was paid to her by the other passengers. The boat had proceeded only a short distance in the stream when she slipped the catch on the gate, ran to the edge of the deck and jumped overboard before a move could be made to stop her.

The act was seen by scores of women, who set up a screaming that made those in the cabin think there had been a collision. Some of the women became hysterical and the utmost efforts of the deckhands were required to keep them from following the unfortunate Mrs. Denner into the river. The crowd on the front of the boat pushed back into the cabin, causing a panic from end to end.

The pilot saw the leap from the deck and stopped the boat immediately. Out from the crowd a young man dashed. Pausing only long enough to slip off his coat, he jumped out in the direction of the place where the young woman went down. The ferry-boat drifted with the tide, and the young man swam round and round, but the body of Mrs. Denner did not come to the surface.

The young man, when hauled aboard, refused to give his name. He disappeared in the crowd at the Thirty-fourth street ferry slip. Mrs. Denner's hat was recovered three hours after she committed suicide alongside a pier in Long Island City and search was instituted for the body.

Young Denner was found at work by an Evening World reporter and informed of the suicide of his wife. He said that she had been threatening to kill herself, but he did not think she would carry out her purpose.

Mrs. Matilda Kolkha, of No. 47 Prospect street, Long Island City, the mother of Mrs. Denner, was on the ferry-boat, from which her daughter jumped. Mrs. Kolkha works in the same cigar factory in which her daughter was employed.

Although Mrs. Kolkha heard on board the boat that a woman had jumped overboard and been drowned, she did not know that the suicide was her own daughter until she reached the factory. There she was informed of her misfortune by some of the employees.

DEMOCRATS OF INDIANA CHEER WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

Name of Former Candidate Arouses Enthusiasm in Convention—Trusts Denounced.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 4.—The Democratic State Convention was called to order at 10:20 o'clock to-day by W. H. O'Brien, Vice-Chairman of the State Central Committee.

John W. Kern, of Indianapolis, was then made permanent chairman. He was greeted with great applause as he came upon the platform.

Mr. Kern said he rejoiced to see again the United Democracy of Indiana. He denounced the war in the Philippines and declared his belief that if the Democrats had been in control there would have been to-day a free republic in the islands. He also expressed the belief that Cuba would yet become a State of the Union.

The name of W. J. Bryan was greeted with loud cheers when it was mentioned by Mr. Kern.

The report of the Committee on Credentials was adopted unanimously.

F. B. Shively, of South Bend, Chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, then read the platform.

HOLDING A PHOTO, GIRL TAKES ACID.

Suicide, Pretty and Thought to Be Miss Voss, Engaged to Be Married—May Have Quarrelled with Fiance.

(Special to The Evening World.)

NEWARK, N. J., June 4.—After gazing tenderly at the photograph of a young man, evidently somebody very dear to her, a girl about eighteen years old and stylishly dressed drank a potion of carbolic acid while she stood on the sidewalk in Berkeley place, Bloomfield, to-day, and fell dying.

Business men passing saw the act and called an ambulance from the Mountain Hospital, where the girl was taken. The doctors could do nothing for her and she died in thirty minutes.

The suicide was pretty and of medium height. She had a satchel on which was a tag bearing the name "L. Voss."

The label on the bottle of carbolic acid was partly torn off, as if to hide where it was bought.

This afternoon the girl was practically identified as Louisa Voss, of No. 270 South Twentieth street, Newark. Her mother said she had left home last evening and failed to return. It being a rainy night, her family knew no reason for her deserting and it was not until it was that she had quarrelled with a young man, Andrew Saxton, to whom she was engaged.

The engagement had been broken twice but recently renewed. The mother was not aware that there had been any further trouble between the young couple.

On a previous occasion, when the engagement was broken, the girl tried to kill herself with a razor.

The girl carried a picture of Saxton, the mother said.

August Voss, an uncle of the girl, but in no way view the body and claim it, if it was that of Miss Voss.

"DESPERADO" SHED TEARS IN COURT.

Warrant Issued for Bartley
Daly for Breaking Windows—He's Three Years Old and Cutting Teeth.

"I want a warrant," said Mrs. Emily Wilhelm in Butler Street Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, "for a young desperado who has been breaking windows in my house at No. 188 Fifty-seventh street. You had better send a big policeman after him, for he is a tough boy."

The warrant was issued and Police-man Steve Cloonan, who is a few feet tall and weighs 225 pounds, was sent to serve it. He served it and the desperado appeared in court this morning.

His name is Bartley Daly and his mother carried him in her arms. She had to answer for him when he was asked how old he was, his nationality, married or single, ever convicted of a crime, and so on.

"Malicious mischief is charged against this heinous offender," said the Magistrate. "I don't know whether to condemn him to be electrocuted or have his hair combed."

At this young Bartley Daly began to cry.

"What's the matter with him?" asked the Magistrate.

"He's teething," replied Mrs. Daly. After a momentary discussion Mrs. Daly was allowed to carry the three-year-old desperado to her home. It appeared that he did break a window in Mrs. Wilhelm's house, of the value of 75 cents, but it was an accident, and Mrs. Wilhelm betrayed so much heat about it that the neighbors played a joke on her.

JOY AND GRIEF IN NEW RULE ON "L."

Passengers on Third Avenue
Have to Call Their Stations
When on Expresses, and Time Is Saved.

A new rule on the Third Avenue "L" road gives joy to the inhabitants of the Bronx who are wont to come to City Hall to business every morning, but is productive of annoyance to persons bound in the same direction who live in the district between Sixty-seventh and Thirty-fourth streets. This rule does not allow express trains to stop at stations when there are no passengers wishing to get off.

Express trains run from the Harlem River to Sixty-seventh street without a stop. Below that street it has been the custom for express trains to make all stops. Now the guards call out as each station is approached that unless there are passengers to get off no stops will be made.

As a result patrons who use the Fifty-ninth street, Fifty-third street, Forty-seventh street, Forty-second street and Thirty-fourth street stations are frequently compelled to wait five or ten minutes before they can get a train, as the rule is extending to local trains. The new scheme enables express trains to run from One Hundred and Forty-fifth street to City Hall in thirty-five minutes.
